

Bio for Ron Brown:

Ron Brown is an organizational-effectiveness consultant and executive coach, serving corporations and leaders in both for-profit and not-for-profit organizations.

Ron specializes in helping clients implement creative solutions for a variety of organizational-development needs, including: leadership and executive development, employee engagement, strategic planning, continuous improvement initiatives, project management, organizational realignments, and leadership accountability. He also provides strategic coaching for individuals, sales teams, and emerging leaders. In addition, Ron serves as director of Ministry & Staff in Youth for Christ and is an adjunct professor of leadership studies at Greenville College, located in central Illinois.

Ron and his wife, Martha, live in Mahomet, Illinois, and have been married for twenty-three years and have three children. Ron serves his local community by being involved in its student-mentoring program and volunteering as a coach for the local high school football team.

Ron has a PhD in organizational leadership from Regent University, Virginia; both a bachelor's and master's degree in electrical engineering from the University of Illinois; and a master's in religion from Trinity International University in Deerfield, Illinois.