A holiday gift to help loved ones stop struggling and start LIVING!

Do you have loved ones who seem to find life a constant struggle? Who struggle with career, money, love, health, children, parents?

Story telling is the tried and tested method for imparting information to children and adults alike. Now you can share an inspirational story that readers identify with on a deeply personal level, a story that is the perfect give for loved ones.

Dan Poynter says it's "a book that will be read and read again!"

John Harricharan says, "the human spirit soars when truth is discovered."

Merle Ballaigues, president of Thomas International North America says, "Stop Struggling and Start Living ranks up there with the absolute best."

Stop Struggling and Start Living: The Rules of the Game is the story of Sam, a man who is about to give up on his career, on his marriage – on life itself. The book shows readers how to use the Law of Attraction and other universal laws to improve their life. Although the book challenges many of the old paradigms of life, it provides clear alternative guidelines for the changed world we live in.

Review copies are available upon request.
